

Water Main Leak Detection Services Start September 16, 2015

As a part of CPW's Water and Sewer Division's preventive maintenance program and Water Management Act Permit, water main leak detection will be performed over the next three weeks. Each year Concord surveys approximately half of the water mains in town. This year Randy Troupe of New England Water Distribution Services, LLC, of Windham, New Hampshire, will be performing Leak Detection services on the northern half of the water distribution system starting the week of September 16th.

Leak detection should not cause any water quality upsets and you can continue to use your water as usual. Leak detection has the ability to pinpoint very small water leaks that could otherwise go unnoticed for long periods of time. The leak detection will be completed during the day starting on September 16th and are expected to be complete by the end of the month.

Randy will be driving a white Toyota Tundra pick-up truck with New Hampshire plates clearly labeled with New England Water Distribution Services. He will be using equipment similar to that pictured above.

If you have any questions don't hesitate to contact CPW's Water Division at 978-318-3250.
